

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

Peter Young, CEO of Young & Partners, awarded the Foreign Policy Association Medal Award

New York, New York – June 26, 2025 – We are pleased to announce that Peter Young, Chief Executive Officer of Young & Partners, the international investment banking and corporate strategy firm, was awarded the Foreign Policy Association Medal Award at a dinner held at the Harvard Club of New York on June 26.

The Foreign Policy Association Medal (FPA), which is the highest honor bestowed by the FPA, recognizes individuals who demonstrate responsible internationalism and work to expand public knowledge of international affairs. Past recipients include the Honorable Michael Bloomberg, Mayor, New York City; Timothy Geithner, Chairman, Federal Reserve Bank of New York; Jean-Claude Trichet, President of the European Central Bank; Kevin Rudd, Prime Minister, Australia; Sheila C. Bair, Chairman, Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, and Anne-Marie Slaughter, Dean, Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs, Princeton University, among others.

After he was introduced by Raj Gupta, former CEO of Rohm and Haas and Senior Advisor of New Mountain Capital, Mr. Young remarked “a great deal of my personal energy, both professionally as an investment banker, corporate strategist and private equity investor, and in my involvement with a number of prominent non-profit organizations, has been directly or indirectly devoted to facilitating international transactions, strategies and understanding.

The importance of knowledge and an understanding of international affairs has always been paramount, but it is even more important today in a world of misinformation, isolation from the facts across borders and within borders, geopolitical misunderstanding and misjudgments, and diminished personal and cultural connections.”

Mr. Young is the CEO of Young & Partners, a corporate strategy and investment banking firm that serves the chemical and life science industries worldwide. He manages the firm, is actively involved in client work, and has been the corporate strategy and financial advisor to a wide variety of leading chemical, pharmaceutical, biotech, medical device/diagnostic, and pharmaceutical ingredients companies with regard to their financial advisory, merger, acquisition, restructuring and capital raising needs.

Prior to the formation of Young & Partners, Mr. Young was the head of the global chemical industry investment banking group at Lehman Brothers, Schroders and Salomon Brothers.

Mr. Young received an M.B.A. from the Harvard Business School (Baker Scholar with Highest Distinction), an M.S. in Accounting from New York University and a B.A. in Economics from Yale University.

He is a Certified Public Accountant, Chartered Global Management Accountant and member of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants and the New York State Society of Certified Public Accountants. Mr. Young is also on the board of Société de Chimie Industrielle, the Committee of 100, and the Editorial Advisory Board of Pharmaceutical Executive Magazine.
